FOREWORD

The BAKER HANDBOOK makes its bow to the District of Columbia.

It has been conceived as a handy and complete source of reference about the organized activity of Washington's Negro residents. The articles, as well as the Directory of business, professionals, churches and organizations are designed to be informative and useful.

What kind of businesses do Negroes own in Washington? When was the local NAACP organized? How many churches are there? Is there a Negro book-binder who can re-finish those well-thumbed volumes you don't wish to discard? These and many other practical and significant questions are intended to be answered by the following pages.

This first edition admittedly does not reach the standards the publishers have set for it. The usual unexpected difficulties arose—and some of the expected ones proved more obdurate than anticipated. By the time this is off the press, however, work will have already commenced on the second edition, which will be even more complete, accurate and interesting than this initial one.

The Publishers cordially invite your comments and suggestions. We especially invite correction of errors, if you discover any; and notice of omissions.

We wish to gratefully acknowledge the helpful interest of Mr. H. Naylor Fitzhugh of the Department of Commerce of Howard University and Mr. Emmer Martin Lancaster, Advisor on Negro Affairs to the U. S. Department of Commerce. As moving spirits in the formation of the Federation of Trades Associations, Mr. Fitzhugh has long since proven his interest in the advancement of local Negro business enterprises, and is highly informed as to its status and possibilities. Mr. Lancaster's files of similar publications in other cities across the country was greatly helpful with respect to the formulation of the plans for this one.

The ones who have principally made this financially possible, of course, are the advertisers. The publishers respectfully invite your attention of the business notices of these enterprises. Many of them patronized this unproved medium principally because of their belief in the value of such a compilation to everyone interested in that one-third of Washington's citizens who are Negro.

Beginning with the 1948-1949 edition this publication will be issued under the name WASHINGTON BLUE BOOK. It will continue to be compiled under the direction of BAKER ASSOCIATES, and the same general plan will be followed on an improved and expanded basis. So will we continue to strive to attain the highest standards of accuracy, up-to-dateness, completeness and attractive format.

Do no wait, however, for our field staff to contact you. Write or phone in to check our files for the accurate entry of your business, club, church or other organization. Especially do not fail to notify us of changes of name, address, officers or proprietorship; and, of the formation of any new business or organization.

The Commerce Club—Howard University

The Commerce Club Howard University

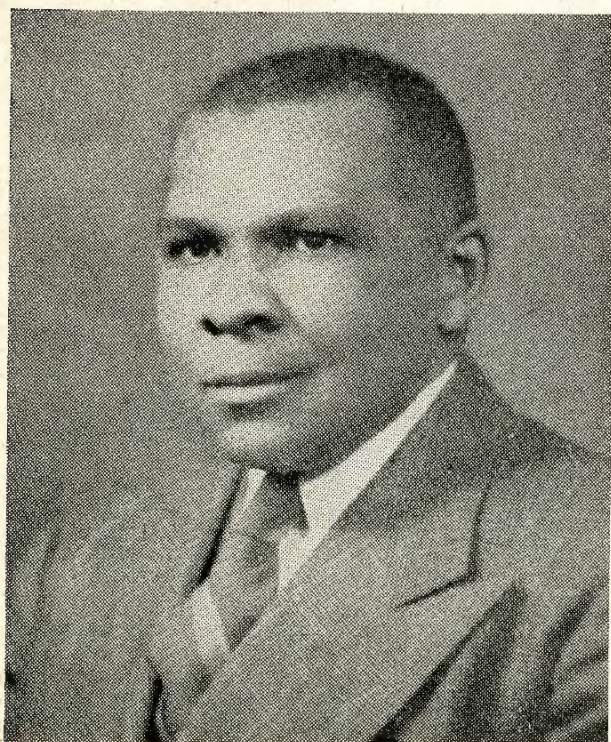

The Chamber of Commerce at Howard University was organized in 1919 a few months after the addition of the Department of Commerce and Finance to the university curriculum.

Its purpose was to stimulate interest in vital commercial and economic matters. At the outset this organization was an integral part of the training program of the Department of Commerce and Finance.

In the early years of the club's development, Mr. Jessie W. Lewis, then Head of the Department of Commerce and Finance, now an officer of the Fuller Product Company, was an outstanding stimulus in the growth and development of this infant organization. It was during his period of affiliation with the organization that his name was changed from "The Chamber of Commerce" to that of "The Commerce Club." Under this name the club has developed into one of the leading organizations on the campus of Howard University.

Membership is open to all undergraduates regardless of their major fields of academic concentration. Since business practices are an integral part of the everyday life of students, The Commerce Club gives the non-commerce majors and minors the opportunity to learn the old and new trends and methods employed in modern business practices.

The major objectives of the club are 1)

MR. EMMER LANCASTER
Advisor on Negro Affairs, U. S. Department of Commerce

To put students in touch with real-life situations, Club members are also sent to work in business firms as part-time bookkeepers, etc. The Club itself follows regular business procedures in its affairs, with committees, board meetings, reports, etc. 2) To meet individual needs and interests of students. Thru Club activities, students become better acquainted with one another and with the instructors. Often individual talents and ambitions are discovered and encouraged by this means. 3) To serve as a medium of contact with Commerce graduates and with the business community. The Club maintains an up-to-date mailing list. Thru this means graduates and businessmen are kept in touch with our activities and we are kept in touch with theirs.

The Commerce Club operates through five standing Committees whose activities together with those of the Executive Committee make up the real work of the club. The standing Committees are: Forum Committee: Plans and conducts discussions and meetings. Survey Committee: Conducts field studies. Social Committee: Arranges receptions, dances, and other get-togethers, including the annual Commerce Banquet. Publicity Committee: Publishes the Commerce Bulletin, and publicizes the activities of the other committees. Clerical Sub-Committee: Takes care of all the official correspondence of the club. Renders clerical assistance to campus organizations and local business enterprises.

Central Theme: Usually some central idea or problem runs through many of the Club's activities during a given year. In past years emphasis was on consumers' cooperatives, employment opportunities for Negroes with college training and Economic opportunities for Negroes in the North with college training and Economic opportunities for Negroes in the North as compared to the South.

In 1946 the Commerce Club began its "Bigger and Better Business Week Program" in collaboration with the Alpha Chapter, of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity of Howard University. The first celebration was such a success that the two organizations decided to make it an annual affair. It must be noted here that the success of the first affair was due to the cooperation of Mr. Emmer Martin Lancaster, Advisor on Negro Affairs of the United States Department of Commerce, Mrs. Geneva Valentine, a local successful business woman, and Dr. Irene C. Hypps, Head, Business Education Department Divisions 10-13 Public School System.

This year the Commerce Club and the Alpha Chapter, Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity has broadened its program and merged it with the "Third Conference on the Negro in Business," sponsored by the United States Department of Commerce, through the office of Mr. Martin Lancaster, Advisor on Negro Affairs.

The Objectives of Phi Beta Sigma

For more than two decades, Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity has carried on a national program of BIGGER AND BETTER BUSINESS. The chief emphasis of the program in the past has been and is today the encouragement of owners and operators of what is generally known as "small businesses" to improve the quality of their services and thereby increase the volume and life of their businesses. Through this program, the Fraternity has also encouraged young men and women to enter business as a life pursuit. The program is not confined to the observance of Bigger and Better Business Week, but operates throughout the year. The official journal of the Fraternity—The Crescent, reaches thousands of high school and college youth and through articles dealing with various phases of business, the opportunities offered by business as a life pursuit are pointed up. The weekly articles Business Facts by the National Director of Bigger and Better Business, which appear in hundreds of newspapers reach thousands of interested persons.

The present plight of "small businesses," as shown by statistics indicating the short life of such businesses and the actual decrease in numbers, emphasizes the urgency of the need for improved management. It must be recognized that every business, regardless how small, must meet the competition offered by other businesses in the field. It is with this realization that Phi Beta Sigma is increasing its emphasis on the "BIGGER AND BETTER BUSINESS" Phase of its national program.

MINER TEACHERS COLLEGE

Miner Teachers College, a four-year teacher-preparing institution of college grade is a part of the Public School System of the District of Columbia. Its establishment on the basis of college grade was authorized by the board of Education of the District of Columbia July 1, 1929. It is accredited by the American Association of Teachers Colleges and Secondary Schools. The curriculum of the college provides for the preparation of teachers for the elementary and junior high schools. Because the college realizes that the standard of the institution depends upon the calibre of its students, it has a selective admissions process which permits the entrance of only one hundred and fifty freshman students. Selectivity does not end with the freshman year, however, for the student is re-selected upon promotion to each succeeding college class and upon entrance into student teaching.

The cooperative plan which exists between Miner Teachers College and the Public School System furnishes ample laboratory facilities for developing capable teachers by supervised experience. The total student body is about 600, and the faculty numbers approximately fifty.

Miner Teachers College grew out of the pioneer work of Myrtilla Miner, founder of the "Normal School for Colored Girls in the City of Washington," December 6, 1851. As a result of the reputation for the soundness of work which Myrtilla Miner's efforts achieved, the school was incorporated by Congressional action in 1863 as "The Institution for the Education of Colored Youth, to be located in the District." From 1871 to 1877 the school operated as a part of Howard University. In 1897 Miner Normal School became a part of the Public School System of the District of Columbia with Miss Martha B. Briggs as principal.

The present college building, erected for the Normal School in 1914, is situated on Columbia Road between Georgia and Sherman Avenues, N. W. By action of the Board of Education an enlarged plant for Miner Teachers College was provided for in the new Building Program for the Public Schools of the District of Columbia.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA BRANCH

N A A C P

Since it was founded in March, 1913, with Milton Waldron and Mrs. Mary Church Terrell as president and vice president, and with approximately three hundred members, the District branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has had a spectacular growth marked by its militant fight for the abolition of segregation and discrimination establish jim-crow street cars in Washington.

While blocking bad legislation, the district NAACP puts its accent on enforcement of Constitutional guarantees and non-discrimination statutes already on the law books. The local group joined hands with the national NAACP to attempt to abolish the poll tax and to secure a Fair Employment Practice Committee. It has also been active in attempting to secure the vote for the District residents.

Far from being an academic body only concerned with theory, NAACP members have joined picket lines in support of worthwhile causes, for example the strike of the S. & W. cafeteria workers and the Arcade Laundry workers in 1941.

"Fighting" Leaders

Excellence of the record is matched by the calibre of the organization's leadership from its first president, M. Waldron, to the incumbent, the Rev. Stephen Gill Spottswood, pastor of John Wesley AME Zion Church. Among other outstanding leaders were Archibald Grimke, who signed the original documents when Mary White Ovington founded the NAACP in New York in 1909; Shelby J. Davidson, Judge Wendell Stafford and Neval H. Thomas.

Going into its thirty-fifth year of its outstanding record of achievement, the district NAACP has pledged itself to greater efforts in carrying out its 1947 membership campaign slogan: "Make D. C. Mean Democracy's Capital."

During the first month of its existence, the local NAACP had 360 members, but in the following month its membership increased by 270 per cent. At the end of the first year the increase was 700 per cent. Today the membership runs into five figures and is still growing.

The history of the district NAACP is rich with examples of successful activity. The branch has been particularly active in matters of legislation vital to the welfare of Negroes.

Pattern Set

Setting the pattern for the present NAACP, the early NAACP constantly pointed out to legislators discriminatory nature of pending bills. As an example of this type of progressive action, Archibald Grimke, former NAACP president and former U.S. Consul to Santa Domingo, in 1914 testified before a congressional committee on the evil intent of segregation bills then before the body. His eloquence, plus the fact that he was speaking for an organized national and civic group, so impressed the committee that the bills were postponed.

It was the District NAACP too that defeated a bill to amend the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution and it was also instrumental in preventing the passage of bills against interracial marriage and bills seeking to promote discrimination in the Nation's Capital.

Twelfth Street YMCA

The Twelfth Street Branch YMCA is the world's oldest Young Men's Christian Association among Negro men and boys. It was organized in 1853 by Anthony Bowen, a Negro, who became the first president of any YMCA established for work among colored men and boys. Thus the Twelfth Street Branch is ninety-four years old and has served four generations of Washington citizens.

The cornerstone of the present building was laid in 1908 by President Theodore Roosevelt. Among the contributors to the building, which was finally completed in 1913, were Julius Rosewald and John D. Rockefeller. Negro citizens themselves contributed $25,000 and Mr. Henry W. Chase became the first Negro ever to give $500 toward the construction of a YMCA building.

tal needs of men and boys. Among the activities are the following: Basketball, Softball, Baseball, Horseshoes, Swimming, Badminton, Cross-country meets, Tennis, First Aid Classes, Tumbling, Weight-lifting, Learn-to-Swim Campaign, Leadership Training.

Boys' Department

The Boys' Department aims to develop character through self-government, club experience and service opportunities. The activities of the Boys' Department include: Arts and Crafts, Lamp Making, Airplane Modeling, Woodwork, Ceramics, Radio, Drawing and Painting, Clubs, and Camp Lichtman.

Activities Department

This Department includes all adult activities

This Branch occupies the third largest building housing character building agencies in the District of Columbia. Only the Central Branch YMCA and the YWCA exceed it in size. The building is a five story structure designed in the Georgian style of architecture. It contains 72 rooms, a dining room, gymnasium, locker room, store rooms and swimming pool.

The program of the "Y" is conducted through five departments: Physical, Boys, Activities, House, Administration. This latter department coordinates and supervises the other four.

Physical Department

Devoted to the physiological and developmenof the Association not included under the Physical Department. Among these are Fall Planning Conference, Churchmen's Luncheon Club, New Ministers' Reception, Fotocraft Club, Phalanx Fraternity, Dormitory Council.

Housing Department

Responsible for building maintenance and supervision of the Dormitory is the House Department.

Maintaining a wholesome, home-like atmosphere and a spirit of good fellowship is a major contribution to the many men sheltered by the dormitory who come to Washington on business, in pursuit of an education or to work.

Slowe and Carver Halls

These Hotels represent one of the finest facilities available to Negroes in America. They are conveniently located to all points of interest in and around the Greater Metropolitan Area of Washington, D. C. Built by the Defense Homes Corporation, a Governmental agency, according to the most modern plans, they have a unique responsibility differing from other Defense Homes Projects. Slowe and Carver Halls are dedicated to service for their guest. Their architectural beauty is only surpassed by their prompt, efficient and courteous service.

Slowe and Carver Halls are composed of 484 outside rooms. These light and airy rooms provide the finest and most comfortable beds. Each room is modernly equipped, decorated, and has running water.

These Hotels also offer facilities for Foreign Diplomats, who being of a complexion hue cannot secure accommodations in the down-town hotels. In caring for our Foreign visitors these hotels render not only a service to the permanent and transient guest, but also to our Government.

The cafeteria was established to satisfy the needs of the guest and can easily serve 1,000 persons per day and features the finest Washington food.

Slowe Hall offers a modern snack bar, beauty parlor and valet shop for the convenience of all guests. Some added features for relaxation are recreation rooms, card rooms, and out-door courts furnished with garden furniture.

The lounges are elaborately finished with modern furniture and present an atmosphere of warmth and friendliness.

Ample space is available in Carver Hall for conventions, group meetings, recitals, and dances.

W. Spurgeon Burke, pictured above, is manager of both hotels.

Howard University

Howard University, located in the Nation's Capital is the largest institution for higher education for Negroes in the United States and is likewise the only comprehensive University system designed primarily for them. The University was conceived in a prayer meeting in the First Congregational Church of Washington, D. C., on November 19, 1866.

The idea which gave birth to Howard University grew out of the Monthly Concert of Prayer for Missions which was held in the First Congregational Church of Washington, D. C. November 19, 1866. On the following evening, ten persons assembled at the home of H. A. Brewster and decided unanimously to establish an educational institution, "in view of the pressing demand of the southern field" according to the words of the resolution which was passed.

Action was taken at the meeting giving the school the designation of the Howard Theological Seminary, after General Oliver Otis Howard, who had been active in the organization of the project. At a meeting on January 8, 1867, the name of the school was changed to Howard University. It has always been open to all races and both sexes.

During February, 1867, the organization of the University was carried rapidly forward, and plans were made for the application for a charter from the Congress of the United States. The first draft of the application, presented January 2*, 1867, was approved by the Thirty-ninth Congress, signed by President Andrew Johnson on March 2, 1867. The anniversary of this day is observed as Charter Day at the University.

On May 1, 1867, the Normal Department and Preparatory Department opened with four white girls as students, children of the Trustees, in a leased frame structure on the east side of Georgia Avenue below W Street. The Reverend Edward F. Williams, a graduate of Yale College and Princeton Theological Seminary, was appointed principal. By the close of the first term the number had grown to ninety-four.

Shortly after the opening of the school, the incorporators negotiated the purchase of 150 acres of land, which included the present site of the University, for $150,000.

The various departments of the school were organized as follows: The Theological Department on January 6, 1868, the Medical Department on April 12, 1868, the Collegiate Department on September 21, 1868, the Law Department on October 12, 1868.

The University thus made its beginning in the several schools of its proposed work. Within five years after the first students were admitted to the academic classes, Howard University was composed of the following Departments: Normal and Preparatory, Musical, Theological, Military, Industrial, Commercial, College, Law and Medicine.

THE JUNIOR POLICE AND CITIZENS CORPS

The Junior Police and Citizens Corps began in October, 1942, when Officer Oliver A. Cowan, a Private in the Metropolitan Police Department, caught a group of youngsters breaking street lights. He did not arrest them. Instead, they were asked to help him keep the neighborhood clean and orderly and to protect all citizens' property. He asked them to organize themselves into the

Junior Police and Citizens Corps

Eleven thousand boys and girls, white and colored, recognizing their responsibility to the community in which they live, have organized to develop their own leadership.

1. Boys and girls are organized in the Junior Police and Citizens Corps on an equal basis.
2. This is an inter-racial organization where all races meet, plan, and work together.
3. The Junior Police and Citizens Corps emphasizes the total development of its members—morally, mentally, physically, religiously, and socially.
4. The Junior Police and Citizens Corps is an independent, self-supporting organization.
5. The Junior Police and Citizens Corps is a youth planning center through which the youngsters, themselves, arrange to utilize existing community resources.

To date, the Junior Police and Citizens Corps has:

1. Purchased and renovated their headquarters building at 720 Barry Place, N. W.
2. Organized and assists over 50 neighborhood clubs and gangs.
3. Set up and operates community centers in neighborhoods where there are none.

4. Encouraged churches to open their door to youth for recreation.
5. Established and maintains a health clinic at headquarters where each member is given a free health examination.
6. Established and encouraged a better relationship between the cop on the beat and the neighborhood kids.
7. Stimulated adult interest in the problems of neighborhood kids and recruited volunteer adult workers.
8. Promoted "Back-to-Sunday School Movements."
9. Made youngsters community conscious by planning and promoting "Alley Cleaning Campaigns." "Good Conduct Programs," etc.
10. Secured employment for youngsters.
11. Participated in neighborhood and city-wide activities such as the Booker T. Washington Memorial Parade, church and school programs.
12. Served as a laboratory for high school and college students.

The project has been studied and recommended as a model set-up for other cities and counties by leading youth authorities.

The Junior Police and Citizens Corps is currently engaged in its annual campaign for funds. Its 1947 goal is $25,000. Contributions should be mailed to its headquarters at 720 Barry Pl., N. W.

The Founder-Director of the JPC is Officer Oliver A. Cowan. Laura Hart Kirkland is executive secretary, and the Honorable G. Howland Shaw, is president of the Board of Trustees.

The businesses in Washington in which Negroes participate run the gamut from individual proprietorship, through corporations all of whose stock holders are Negroes, to corporations of mixed racial ownership. Two of the most interesting and distinctive of the latter are DISTRICT THEATRES and Radio Station WQQW.

DISTRICT THEATRES

This is a chain of 26 theatres serving Negro communities in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. This chain was originally established by Abraham E. Lichtman. When he retired the enterprise was reorganized into its present form and some of Washington's most prominent Negroes became stock holders. The seven man Board of Directors includes one Negro, and practically all of the 489 persons who constitute the operating staff are colored, 32 of whom are managers or assistant managers of the 26 houses.

The well known Shep Allen, whose picture appears in the inset, is General Supervisor of the entire operation; Sigman Heard, a Negro, is Director of Personnel and Rufas Byars, Director of Public Relations.

TWO DISTINCTIVE ENTERPRISES

STATION WQQW

This is one of the most unique of the dozen or more stations that have sprung up in Washington in the last 18 months; unique in its programming policies, in its interracial group of stock holders and in its staff of white and Negro personnel.

The vice president of the corporation is Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, Dean of Howard University Medical School.

The staff includes a Negro announcer, a secretary and a program specialist. One of the most popular program features is the Sunday afternoon classical jazz program conducted by Emerson Parker, a young Negro music authority.

Station WQQW has attracted nation wide attention by its policy of limiting the time for commercial messages to only 1 minute out of every 15. It prohibits singing commercials altogether. And it prides itself on being a "good music station" due to the fact that it features classical and the better type of popular music throughout its operating day.

THE BAKERS DOZEN

In November, 1944, a group of thirteen young women got together out of mutual concern about the lack of wholesome recreation facilities for Negro Tenn-Agers. This number inspired the adoption of the name BAKER'S DOZEN.

Several months of study led the Baker's Dozen to conclude that the Mid-city area, designated as census tracts 46, 47, 48, and 49, was a main focal point of youth problems.

To combat some of the obstacles confronting these youth, the group set up a Canteen on one floor of the local settlement house, operating one night each week. Over-crowded conditions in this center made it impossible for the settlement to allow more time. In eighteen months of operation the canteen program and membership became so large that required all three floors of the Settlement House to accommodate the crowds.

Accordingly the group embarked on the ambitious effort to raise money to acquire facilities that will make possible a more widely serviceable program. Their largest and most fruitful fund raising effort was the Duke Ellington Concert presented on June 6, 1946. This event not only raised a substantial sum of money, but brought the organization to the attention of the public as an unusually effective and high-vision group.

Since that time they have purchased two buildings, pictured above, at 1509 and 1511 Fourth Street, N. W. These buildings are now being renovated, and much of the furniture and equipment is already purchased.

Officers of the Baker's Dozen are: President, Ruth B. Spencer; Vice President, Henrietta B. Franklin; Secretary, Lucille D. Roberts; Treasurer, Beatrice Y. Black; Chairman, Propertory Committee, Flaxie P. Bourne.

INSTITUTE ON RACE RELATIONS

Since it was founded in August, 1943, with Tomlinson D. Todd, director, and scarcely a dozen members, the Institute On Race Relations has had a spectacular growth marked by its militant fight for the abolition of discrimination and segregation in the Nation's Capital.

This young militant organization began its fight against jim-crow in Washington by going in downtown restaurants and theaters to test the legality of discrimination. They first sought and were given, the cooperation of the police. They later discovered that it was legal to go in these downtown public places. It was discovered, during these experiments, that members of other races did not resent Negro members of the Institute, except in a few isolated cases. It was discovered, during these experiments, that members of other races did not resent Negro members of the Institute, except in a few isolated cases. It was always a policy carried out by proprietors and managers.

After carrying on these experiments for several months, the Institute began sponsoring a series of forums. Guest speakers included members of Congress, college presidents and prominent civic leaders. The Institute also sponsored social functions such as intercultural and international dances and banquets to demonstrate members of different races can fraternize.

While assisting to block bad legislation, the Institute has supported the enforcement of Constitutional guarantees and non-discrimination statutes already on the Law books. It campaigned for the abolition of the poll tax, the establishment of a Fair Employment Practice Committee, and District Suffrage.

"Americans All"

The Institute is most widely known for its radio program "Americans All." It is designed for the promotion of harmony and understanding among the various races, colors and creeds in America.

THE WASHINGTON URBAN LEAGUE

The Urban League movement began in 1910 as an agency for social welfare work among Negroes. During this early period large numbers of Negroes migrated from southern farms to northern and southern cities and urban centers. These people were not accustomed to city life, and there was an obvious need for an agency which could help them to find out their health and welfare needs and to interpret their needs to the city communities. Thus the name "Urban" was given the agency to indicate that its work was in the urban areas.

The Washington Urban League was incorporated in 1938 by an interracial group of civic leaders. Outstanding interest and encouragement was given by Canon Anson Phelps Stokes, of the Washington Episcopal Cathedral, who was one of the incorporators. The incorporators were: Muriel M. Alexander, John J. Corson, Campbell C. Johnson, Belford V. Lawson, Jr., William I. Lee, Howard H. Long, Newbold Noyes, Mrs. Thomas Parran, John R. Pinkett, Mary Steele, Anson Phelps Stokes, Elwood Street, Alice T. Strong, Garnet C. Wilkinson, and Velma G. Williams.

The special role of the Urban League in the community is to provide for employment, health and welfare services for Negroes. This work is carried out by a staff, professionally trained in social welfare work. The following list includes the principal services which the Urban League renders the community:

1. Provides Washington with an interracial board to calmly talk over tensions, to spike harmful rumors, to assist in preventing racial disorder, to find out the needs of the Negro as to jobs, homes, medical care and education, to help the welfare agencies to meet these needs, to tell the Negro community of the many helpful services available, and to assist Negroes in doing their part to understand and support the welfare services of Washington.

2. Provides an office in the heart of the Negro area, with a staff professionally trained in social work and employment, to inform those seeking advice and information.

3. Provides personal services, such as, advice on jobs; job placement, training opportunities, aid to veterans on special problems; refers people seeking relief, jobs, houses and medical care to proper agencies; conducts classes for domestic workers, custodial workers, on civil service requirements, apprenticeship opportunities, union openings and job conduct and performance; field talks with employers, unions and employees to better relations; arranges vocational opportunity classes each year for teachers and students; provides field work for students of Howard University, Atlanta University, and Catholic University — School of Social Work.

4. Makes available facts on Negro community, its unmet needs for health and welfare services.

5. Gives facts and advice on problems of Negroes to many agencies.

6. The League has been a financial asset to the Community Chest in interpreting the Chest program to the Negro community and organizing the community for Community Chest campaigns. The League received an award in the 1945 War Fund Campaign and in 1946, a Vice President of the League was one of the four co-chairmen of the Chest drive in the city-wide residential unit.

Officers of the Washington Urban League are: President, Robert G. Wilson; Executive Secretary, Charles C. Beckett; and Industrial Secretary, James A. Pawley.

WASHINGTON CHURCHES

by PERRY J. THOMPSON

Washington churches have the distinction of being one of the spearheads in the nation's ultimate fight for world freedom and civil rights.

Local churches, through their leaders, have offered sanctuary for slaves and were among the first institutions to offer education to the underprivileged of the minority group.

For example, Metropolitan Wesley AMEZ Church, on D Street, between Second and Third, S. W., is the first church organized by Negroes in the District and represents the initial efforts by the minority group to obtain religious freedom and educational opportunities.

In 1837, when the church was admitted in the AMEZ Conference, then located in Philadelphia, Metropolitan Wesley became known for its operations of Underground Railroads.

St. Paul AME Church, on Eighth St., between D and E Streets, S. W., was also known for its activity in underground movements in successful transportation of fugitive slaves into free States.

Members and officials of such churches as Israel CME, Ebenezer Methodist, Galbraith AMEZ and others, have been responsible to a great degree for the cultural, economic, educational and educational gains for the people of this Metropolitan area.

Although most of the churches in this city were designed with large auditoriums for the sole purpose of worship, the progressive thinking ministers of the city today, who are cognizant of the present needs in the field of religion, are following the trends that will further develop practical living.

Taking pattern after the old militant church, many church organizations are designing their edifices to include classrooms for youth forums, nursery rooms, recreation rooms and playground facilities. These steps are taken to help make through Christian education, better men and women for the world of tomorrow.

To date, the most modern church edifice built here with a view to meet the modern trends, is the Bible Way Church, New Jersey Ave., N. W., between L and New York Ave., pastorate of the Rev. Smallwood Williams. The Rev. Mr. Williams, who started preaching on a street corner in this city at the age of 14, completed an estimated $150,000 building this year.

Serving the Georgetown area is the Union Wesley AMEZ Church, pastorate of the Rev. William A. Stewart. This church has launched a new building project which will cost some $175,000. This church, which is expected to be completed by June, 1948, will feature a gymnasium, the first to be introduced to colored churchgoers in this city.

Among some of the churches and their leaders here who are taking their rightful place in community affairs and the struggle for world brotherhood are, The Revs. William H. Jernagin, a National Baptist leader and executive director of the Washington Bureau, Fraternal Council of Negro Churches in America; Robert M. Williams, president of the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance and pastor of the Asbury Methodist Church, whose doors have been opened regularly to interracial programs and civic meetings.

The Revs. Stephen G. Spottswood, president of the local NAACP and pastor of the John Wesley AMEZ Church; J. H. Peters, pastor of the Ebenezer Methodist Church, and Robert Brooks, pastor of the Lincoln Temple Congregational Church. These are but a few clerics in Washington who have made themselves and their institutions felt in the molding of a Christian democracy in the nation's capital.

Mention is also made of the valuable contributions made by members of the so-called majority groups who see the need for unity if there is to be a lasting peace.

In the past few years, under the leadership of the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, the Washington Cathedral, which has been publicly designated by the Bishop as "the house of prayer for all people," must be cited for the part it has played in bettering racial relationships.

Some others include the Interchurch Fellowship, an interracial-intercultural organization, which meets monthly in local churches to hear speakers of all races. The Ethical Society of Washington is another organization that draws no color line. Members hold regular Sunday meetings at The Friendship House in the Southeast section of the city. One of the biggest jobs is being done by the Washington Federation of Churches under the leadership of Dr. Frederick Reissig, executive secretary.

Washington, with its nearly 500 churches and some thirty bodies of denominations, sects, cults and their sub-divisions in the Metropolitan area, is slowly but definitely developing into a leader in demonstrating the way to world brotherhood and steps to attain it.
